

It's bad enough that your cracking down on free radio. But if I'm paying for something, I feel I should be able to listen to whatever I want to. Just because rich corporate america doesn't think it's fair even though they will still make millions of dollars, why should that effect me. When cable tv came out, did public tv make a big stink about it? 40 years later, there is still free tv along side with cable tv. Give XM radio a break. 1st Amendment rights. And I was going to vote for Bush this election year, but not anymore if he takes away my right to listen to whatever I want to.
